

THRILLING TRIP AROUND WORLD ENDS FOR LANGHORNE LAD

Jackie Sargeant, 11, Makes Jaunt From China Alone;
4,000 Miles by Air

CITES BOMBARDMENT

Monkeys and Stallion Were Pets; Saw Scalped Burmese
Floating in River

LANGHORNE, Dec. 14.—Bombarded by the Japanese, his personal baggage lost on a ship that hit a German mine, a 4000-mile airplane ride and a trip on flatbottom river boat through jungleland, are but a few of the thousands of exciting experiences of Bucks county's champion boy-traveler.

He is 11-year-old Jackie Sargeant, who arrived at his grandmother's home in Langhorne this week after the completion of a trip around the world, the latter half of which was made by himself, without his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Andrew J. Sargeant, of Loiwing, China.

Jackie is now living with his grandmother, Mrs. Kathryn B. May, of 102 Bellevue avenue, Langhorne. His dad and mother are in Burma, India, across a river from where his dad is engaged in the manufacture of airplanes with the Central Aircraft Corporation, making war planes for the Chinese government. Mr. Sargeant and his wife have been in China for five years, going there from Bristol, where Sargeant was once connected with an airplane manufacturing plant.

This was Jackie's first complete trip around the world, but he has made seven trips across the Pacific Ocean, all with his parents with the exception of this last trip back to the United States.

In order that he can secure an education in American schools, the Sargeants decided to send their son back to the United States for several years. Where Jackie will attend school has not been decided as yet.

The little fellow, showing the confidence of a 21-year-old, arrived by plane at the Newark Airport last Friday afternoon at 2.13 after a very eventful trip from Burma, India, "on his own."

Turkey Dinner Is Feature Of A Christmas Party

The Mothers' Association of Bristol public schools in session at the high school building, last evening, partook of the annual turkey dinner. Members and guests, members of Bristol school board, superintendent of schools Warren P. Snyder, and Mrs. Snyder, and principal of the high school David Hertzler, and Mrs. Hertzler, were served. The tables were decorated with miniature Christmas trees in blue and white, and white candles.

Mrs. Jacob Townsend, toastmistress, called upon each member of the board for a short talk. Mrs. William Borchers, president of the association welcomed all. Mrs. Harry Pope, who had charge of preparing the supper, was called upon for a few words. Mrs. Herbert Hanson was chairman of the committee in charge of the dining room.

During the dinner, Christmas carols were sung, then members and guests adjourned to the auditorium where a business meeting was held, with Mrs. Borchers presiding. Santa arrived with his donkey and presented gifts to each. Santa was represented by Mrs. Robert Patterson, and the donkey by Mrs. Robert Sutton and Mrs. Harry Goheen.

Each member of the association took a gift for the Girl Reserves who will give a Christmas party for the needy children of Bristol.

A humorous sketch was enjoyed, which was given by a group of members of Daughters of America, Council No. 8. Those taking part: Mrs. Harvey Cochran, Mrs. Jennie Deiterick, Mrs. Lamont White, Mrs. Allen Lebo, Jr., Mrs. Elwood Hazel, Mrs. Clara Bailey, Mrs. Joseph Keers, Mrs. Harry Hinman, Mrs. Gilbert Lovett, Mrs. Clifford Foster.

TO PLAY IN PHILA.

Frank Della, 223 Dorrance street, is one of the members of the Ferko String Band, who has been chosen to play with a section of the band at a function in the Bellevue-Stratford Hotel, Philadelphia, this afternoon. The group will represent the Philadelphia Mummies.

Gift Searchers Directed By Some Humorous Verses

The monthly business meeting of the senior choir, First Baptist Church, was held last evening, with a Christmas party being enjoyed later. Gifts for each member of the choir were placed in various locations in the church, and bits of humorous verse written by Gilbert Lovett instructed each how to locate the gifts. Refreshments were served, the hostesses being Miss Laura Ellis, Mrs. Frank Hilgendorf and Miss Vera Donnell.

The climax of the evening was a surprise to Miss Ruth Weik, who will be a January bride. Mr. Lovett composed and read a poem, tracing her life in the church from a little tot through the primary department of the Sunday School to teacher in the school, and loyal member of the choir. As the gift of an electric cooker was presented by the choir, the closing stanza was read:

"May it be God's will that He shall bless
Our path with long life and happiness;
And may her thoughts, as the years expire,
Always be with the First Baptist choir."

The singing of Christmas carols concluded the evening. Twenty-two members were present.

WAR SUGGESTIONS ARE SHUNNED IN TOYLAND

Not One War-Like Toy Being Manufactured; Credited
To Women

"SANTA" ON OVERTIME

KANE, Pa., Dec. 14.—(INS)—Lights are burning brightly in Santa Claus' workshop these December nights and the war in Europe has nothing to do with it.

On the contrary, the war is being shunned today in this center of the educational toy industry. Not one toy with a warlike theme is being manufactured.

W. T. Henretta, manager of the toys division of Holgate Brothers Company, today credited women's organizations for the extraordinary success attained in clearing the market of toys with a belligerent theme at a time when pressure from the conflict abroad might have influenced the trend.

Nearly every women's organization has taken a stand against war-like toys, he said. They have sent petitions to toy buyers of department stores and have approached manufacturers to eliminate undesirable items, to the point where American-made toys are almost entirely of a constructive nature.

Boostered by this sentiment and reluctant to deviate from its own policy of constructive toys, the Holgate Company refused to add a single warlike plaything to its line. Wisdom of its choice is reflected in the light coming from factory windows, where an extra shift has been in operation for several months to meet the demand.

Bazaar Conducted By Falls Township P. T. A.

FALLS TOWNSHIP, Dec. 14.—The Falls Township P. T. A. held a Christmas meeting last evening, with Mrs. Alvan C. Thompson presiding.

There was a bazaar with Mrs. William Tomlinson in charge, assisted by Mrs. Leighton Batten, Mrs. E. L. Burton, Leon de Ferndelmont and William Cusack. The program included motion pictures, Josephine Hopwood was in charge of the music. Mrs. Helen Forrest and Mrs. C. MacDade were acting hostesses.

The Choo-Choo Girl

(By "The Stroller")

She's glad no one from Bristol saw her. So we'll spread the news. A fair resident of Wilson avenue, who commutes to a Philadelphia school, doesn't miss one train—she just lets several slip out of Broad street station.

In sequence, here's the tale: While conversing with friends, the train she was planning to board for Bristol, pulled out of the station. There was nothing to do but wait for the next one. The gab-fest continued, and so interesting it was that when the Bristolian glanced down the track she saw with despair that the brakeman was signalling with his lantern for the train to leave. With one rush she made the rear platform, only to find the door locked. Hammering on the glass was of no avail, and she was afraid to jump off and run to the next set of steps, lest the train start immediately. Deciding to remain there and hang on until a conductor came into that car, she waited a few seconds. Then gaining courage, and leaning over the side of the car she saw to her dismay that the train was leaving, and the car which she had boarded was not a part of it.

The first action after hurriedly dismounting was a careful scrutiny to ascertain that no Bristolians witnessed the act, before she strolled down the platform to await the third train.

Yes, she caught that one!

British Navy Suffers Heavily

Montevideo, Uruguay, Dec. 14.—The British Navy suffered heavily in the running sea battle which sent the German pocket battleship Admiral Graf Spee limping into Montevideo crippled by 13 hits from the water line to the bridge, it was revealed today.

While the German minister to Uruguay threatened a formal charge that the British had used poison gas shells in the combat between the Graf Spee and the four cruisers of the Royal Navy, British Minister Drake disclosed that one of the British ships, the Exeter, was damaged almost as badly as the German battleship, and is out of action.

Details of the first major sea battle of the war still were obscure, but there was evidence that the Graf Spee was almost out of fuel and racing for a rendezvous with the German oil tanker Tacoma when she encountered the Exeter.

The Exeter sent out a call for aid and within a short time the Graf Spee found herself engaged in battle with the Exeter, the Ajax, the Barham and the Achilles, of the British South Atlantic squadron.

Drake refused information regarding the Ajax, Achilles and Barham, but indicated there were several dead and wounded aboard the Exeter.

(Note: Earlier reports from London stated the Exeter was not badly damaged and that casualties, if any, were not numerous.)

Two From Here Listed For Trial Today in Phila.

PHILADELPHIA, Dec. 14.—(INS)—Nicholas Stallone, alias Nick Stallone, and Catherine Heller Fuss, both of Bristol, were scheduled to be brought to trial today on Federal charges of pandering.

Arrested by G-man J. W. Going, they are charged specifically with transporting Rose Mary Paone from Ambler, Pa., to Princeton, N. J., for immoral purposes. The indictment lists three counts, which charge Stallone and the Fuss woman transported the girl from this state to New Jersey on two occasions in October and once in November.

The case was listed for trial before U. S. District Court George A. Welsh at the Custom House, Philadelphia. Assistant District Attorney Thomas Curtin will prosecute the case.

Comfort to Return to Warm
House After Search for Gifts
In Stormy Weather

MORE SUGGESTIONS

By Gift Seeker

When shopping days prove to be those which have grim skies, a biting wind, or the type of weather such as yesterday—half rain and half snow—a warm, cheery home is more than appreciated when day is done.

Sleety seasons, with penetrating cold and dampness, might detract slightly from some of the joy of Christmas shopping, but when one knows that the house will be comfortable after the search for gifts is over, one doesn't mind nearly as much. Artesian Coal Company is aiding countless residents, not only in keeping their houses comfortable with Jeddo-Highland coal, but by cutting heating bills in half with this money-saving fuel.

There is scarcely a grown-up, and there are no children, but who love trains. These are favorites with girls and boys alike, and all know the habit Dad has of playing with Junior's trains. There is a big bargain at Wolson's Hardware Store, 404-406 Mill street, which consists of a 16-piece Lionel passenger train, complete with transformer. The price is but a few dollars, in fact so low that any family can secure one. For the little girls there are offered at this store an embroidery kit, including the dollies, hoops, needles, scissors, thimble, and variety of floss.

Hosiery is one of the gift offerings of Hardy's Shoe Shop, Mill street, utility sheers being sold in three lengths—short, medium and long.

One "scent" in the toilet goods line that always elicits our interest is that of old spice. It can be purchased right here in Bristol, the United Cut Rate Drug Store, Mill street, selling the bath salts, talcum, after-shave lotion, and many other items to be had with the spicy scent. Another gift suggestion that will be welcomed by many, is the electric vibrator offered by United, this being a quick way to stimulate massage.

An assistant pastor is to be named by the Deep Run New Mennonite Church, to aid the present pastor, the Rev. Allen M. Fretz, Perkasio, in the work. The Rev. Fretz marked his 86th birthday anniversary yesterday, and for 56 years he has been pastor of the Deep Run Church.

The decision to elect an assistant pastor came after the veteran clergyman had suggested at the annual congregational meeting that the congregation take this action.

Although the Rev. Mr. Fretz is far past the three score and ten mark, he remains quite active, and unless weather conditions are too severe he drives his automobile from his home in Perkasio to the church each Sunday.

Ordained as pastor of the church on October 13, 1883, Rev. Mr. Fretz has served in this capacity without interruption for the past 56 years. When Zion Mennonite Church, Souderton, was organized in 1893 he became its pastor and served there until 1909, at the same time serving the pastorate at Deep Run. For 25 years, from 1913 until 1938, he was, pastor of the Springfield Mennonite Church, and in 1917 he assumed the pastorate of the Bethel Mennonite Church, Perkasio. He will, however, continue the pastorate there.

In addition to these activities, Rev. Mr. Fretz served as pastor of a Mennonite church in Pottstown from 1910 until 1914, the Bowmanville charge in Lancaster county from 1915 until 1917.

NEARLY 75% OF FUND FOR HOSPITAL RAISED

Goal for Doylestown Emergency Hospital is Set at $8,000.00

ORGANIZATIONS, $721.00

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 14.—The canvass for funds for the Doylestown Emergency Hospital shows that a total of $5,787.62 has been raised out of the goal of $8,000 which was set.

Mrs. Louisa B. Kerr, chairman of the hospital and visiting nurse committee of the Village Improvement Association, is chairman of the canvass.

Doylestown Borough Council releases the hospital property from taxes. About $6500 worth of furnishings and equipment have been given to the hospital since its opening one year ago, on January 21st.

In discussing the needs of the hospital, Mrs. Kerr emphasized the fact that the full $8,000 will be needed. She appealed to those who have not given a contribution to do so now, if possible. The hospital and nursing service will be glad to receive a check, which should be sent to Mary O. E. Twining, treasurer, at Doylestown, and thus help those along who cannot pay for hospital and Visiting Nurse service.

Comparison of this year's canvass and that of last year show that the actual cash donations last year were about $29 more, but a pledge of $233.50 for this year, in addition to $5564.12 on hand in cash, will make this year's total of $5787.62 greater than last year.

Doylestown borough contributed $2493.10 this year, compared to $2714.02 last year. Out-of-town districts contributed $2359.92 this year compared to $2426.85.

Organizations contributed $721 this year compared to $443.50 a year ago.

Doylestown, by wards: First Ward, $1073.60 (1939); $1093.00 (1938); Second (1938); Third Ward, $761.95 (1939); and Ward, $657.55 (1939), $612.55 (1938), $1098.47 (1938).

THE GREAT GAME OF POLITICS

By FRANK R. KENT

"Distributed by McNaught Syndicate, Inc."

The Senate After 1940

Washington, Dec. 13. WHEN the last New Deal tide swept the country in 1936 it carried so many Democrats into the Senate that politicians agreed Democratic control of that body could not be shaken for a long time. The assertion was then made that though in 1940 Republicans should elect a President and secure a majority of the House—both easily possible—still the Senate would remain in Democratic hands.

ANY review of the facts bears out this forecast. After the 1936 sweep, there were 80 Democrats and only 15 Republicans in the Senate. The change of tide in 1938 which added 80 Republicans to the House, increased Senate Republicans only 8.

As of today, the House figures are Democrats, 261; Republicans, 169, but in the Senate they are: Democrats, 69; Republicans, 23. Now, if, as most people think, the trend next year continues toward conservatism and away from the New Deal, the Republicans may easily elect a majority of the House, but they have not a chance—no matter how strong the tide—of doing that in the Senate.

FOR one thing, only thirty-two of the ninety-six Senators come up for election next year. For another, a number of these are from States of the South where, regardless of how strong a Republican year it is, no Republican will be elected to the Senate—States, for example, like Florida, Mississippi, Virginia, Texas and Tennessee. Of the thirty-two Senators whose successors must be chosen in 1940, twenty-three are Democrats, seven Republicans. Should the Republicans reelect all seven of their Senators and then win in every State where the incumbent is a Democrat, they would still have only 30 Senators.

Cadets Who Earned Merits Rewarded With A Dinner

A turkey dinner was the reward accorded members of the Cadet Drum and Bugle Corps, served in the Bracken Post home of the American Legion, last evening, to those Cadets who became eligible for such by earning required merits. Others served were officers of the corps, and Commander of Bracken Post, Marvel Durham.

The menu included: roast turkey, mushroom gravy, mashed potatoes, peas, rolls, butter, coffee, and covers were arranged for 40.

At 8.30, the remaining members of the corps arrived, and enjoyed the Christmas party which was staged. Motion pictures in color were shown by Howard Smoyer, the reels including the New York World's Fair, Bristol high school football games, Armistice Day memorial exercises and parade, and other recent parades of the corps. Percy G. Ford also showed motion pictures, the sound reels including: Major Bowes' amateur hour, a safety picture, and a cartoon.

Each Cadet was presented with a box of candy.

The evening affair was arranged by Corps Commander Charles Brodie, and Bracken Post corps committeeman, Evan B. Vandegrift. The women who prepared and served the dinner are: Mrs. Marvel Durham, Mrs. Betty Felson, Mrs. Benjamin Abart, Mrs. Gamble, Mrs. Fred Bryner, Mrs. Herbert Nyse.

ENDS TERM IN MASS.; TO BE BROUGHT HERE

Arthur A. Dermer Says He Will Waive Extradition
To Bucks County

CASARJAN FOR PARDON

One man was served with a fugitive warrant as he finished a prison term yesterday, and another filed an appeal for pardon with the Penna. State Pardon Board asking for his release. Both men, it is alleged, were implicated in the hold-up of the office force of Lucius Beebe & Sons, on Beaver street, April 9, 1937.

As Arthur A. Dermer, 35, of Chelsea, Mass., finished a state prison term he was served with a fugitive warrant for the Beebe job. He said that he would waive extradition to Bristol.

Dermer had completed a three-to-five-year term for conspiracy to hold up a restaurant. He will be brought back into Bucks county and tried for the Beebe hold-up.

Yesterday, also, Leon Casarjan, Chelsea, Mass., asked the Penna. State Board of Pardons to release him from serving the balance of his term.

Casarjan was one of the five who held up the office of the Beebe firm here on April 9, 1937, making a successful get-away with $8,435, a portion of the weekly pay-roll. Casarjan's part in the plot, it was said, was to drive his four accomplices to Bristol to look over the "lay of the land."

Casarjan was arrested on June 10, 1937, and was charged with being an accessory before and after the fact of an armed robbery. He pleaded guilty on August 2, 1937, and was sentenced by Judge Keller in the Bucks County Court to serve from 2½ to five years in prison.

TELLS REALTORS TO CAPITALIZE ON THE ASSETS OF BUCKS CO.

Richard P. Brown, Secretary of Commerce, Tells of County's Favorable Location

SIXTY AT CONFERENCE

Bucks County Real Estate
Board Plans Meetings To Boost Bucks County

DOYLESTOWN, Dec. 14.—The man who is "selling Pennsylvania to the Nation" came into Bucks County last night and suggested ways for Bucks Countians to interest others in this county. The suggestions were made by the Honorable Richard P. Brown, Secretary of Commerce, in the cabinet of Governor Arthur H. James. Secretary Brown spoke at the first of a series of dinner-conferences sponsored by the Bucks County Real Estate Board to boost Bucks County. The meeting was held in the Doylestown Inn.

Speaking particularly of Bucks County, Secretary Brown said: "My department cannot promote any one particular area over another, but here in Bucks County I would like you folks to utilize all of your possibilities to the utmost. You are right here in the center of things, between three large cities." The speaker then said that he believed that within the next 20 years land values in Bucks County will be far greater than they are today.

"You can attract the industries and the State will do its part. I think you have a good location and would like to see you realize on what you have."

The meeting was presided over by Thomas B. Stockham, president of the Board, who acted as toastmaster. There were present 60 realtors, bankers, industrialists and others interested in the development of the county.

In opening the meeting, Assemblyman Stockham presented a number of guests, including County Commissioner Joseph Baker; County Commissioner-elect William Hunsicker; Assemblyman Wilson L. Yeakey; State Senator Farrell, of Philadelphia; Charles Gerlach, U. S. Congressman from Bucks-Lehigh district; and Judge Hiram H. Keller, Bucks County.

President Stockham, in his opening remarks, welcomed the group and described the relationships existing between the realtors and the public.

Secretary Brown began by saying he would give a brief outline of his department, and tell of some of the things it has accomplished since its inauguration with the incoming office of Arthur H. James as Governor of Pennsylvania.

"It is the only department of its kind in any state in the union. It was given very broad powers by the Legislature. I took the unemployment census of Pennsylvania in 1937, and it was found that Pennsylvania had 25% more unemployed than the average state. This meant that sons and daughters of Pennsylvanians had 25% fewer chances of getting employment in the state than if they had been residents in other states."

The speaker then referred to the tremendous handicaps under which Governor James went into office, mentioning the $50,000,000 deficit which he inherited, the 25% more unemployed, and the extraordinarily high taxes imposed on business corporations which had caused "an exodus of hundreds of industries from the Keystone State."

Mr. Brown said that it was the business of the Department of Commerce, of which he is the head, to check this exodus of industries from the State, and to attract new ones into the State, "if Pennsylvania was not to continue slipping. The Department of Commerce was set up and I was honored by being named its secretary."

Some of the functions of the Department of Commerce are to make recommendations for new laws, and suggest amendments where needed to the existing laws as an aid to business, and thus to restore the confidence of the business man in the state. Mr.

ACERBIC BUT HELPFUL

The Wild West seems to have gone as gentle as the "effete East." If anything, it has gone gentler. From Oklahoma City comes a dispatch which says that it's been a long time since anything backfired as loudly and as forcefully as the city park board's attempt to display masculine gallantry toward women drivers.

The board announced it would open the civil center to parking to alleviate the congestion during the period of the busiest shopping season, "and as a special concession to the ladies who have so much trouble getting into and out of parking places, we're going to make the parking stalls twenty feet long instead of the usual eighteen feet."

Now what did the board expect in response? It came immediately and vehemently, suddenly and devastatingly. Among the vitriolic missives which came from women who drive cars were these:

"If they are going to put in bigger parking spaces, let them put them in for men."

"Why, I never heard such a slap at women."

Many will like best of all the rejoinder by the woman who remarked: "Nonsense, I've been driving since before some of the park board members were out of short pants."

Of course, there is, and no doubt always will be, a hotly debated question as to which is the better driver, a man or a woman. Both sides have vociferous champions and the final outcome of the argument is not yet.

So far as the public welfare is concerned, this is a contest which can bring nothing but good. It is conceivable that a competition between men and women at the wheel of automobiles, all aiming to do their bit toward adding to the safety score of their own side in this contest, is bound to contribute to the improvement of automobile driving habits to the reduction of the toll of certain death in the streets and highways.

A ONE-HANDLED JUG

And so the Saint Lawrence seaway pact is nearly ready to submit to Canada. Under it, all the United States undertakes to do is:

To develop the international rapids section of the Saint Lawrence River.

To complete all the works at the international rapids except Canadian powerhouse superstructures and their equipment.

To develop its own power project, this being a New York state undertaking.

To provide 27-foot channels so that minor ocean vessels can penetrate to American lake ports.

It is hardly to be expected that Canada will be foolish enough to turn down such a gift. When someone is offered a very costly present with little obligation on his part, he is apt to accept it. And that is just what this proposal amounts to so far as Canada is concerned. American billions are to be poured out of a one-handed jug into Canadian hands.

The proposed pact is just another example of the Roosevelt tendency to extreme liberality with public funds. There is hope, however, that the same common sense which has heretofore governed action in the United States Senate on this Canadian waterways scheme will again prevail.

It is the prevailing wind that makes winter resort palms lean that way. Gull make them horizontal.

COMMUNICATION

Wycombe, Dec. 11, 1939.

Editor Courier: There was recently reported a campaign, by a certain group in the county, to destroy the skunk . . . for that reason may I present some facts?

A skunk walks into a farmer's front yard. If the farmer is interested in having a fine lawn, hay field or garden, he should be glad to see him. The skunk digs white grubs from the ground, and thus saves the grasses. One may see the little pits he digs in the lawn, while hunting the grubs. Some people believe that skunks destroy considerable numbers of the nests of pheasants and grouse, and if they are interested in feathered game, they would like to have skunks exterminated.

And how many farmers' families in the hunting season have lost, do you think, some, to them, valued read, in a pet cat, which has probably lost its life, from a sportsman's gun, while watching on its owner's own property, a field mouse's home, a genuine pest, which the cat helps to keep down in quantity. The cat does its part, and its control should come, not by the hunter's gun, but through education, which will teach owners of female cats to stop giving helpless kittens to anyone who will take them away, even though it is only in some cases, to set them adrift to hunt for their food in fields and woods. Let's have less killing and more education in these matters.

A farmer who grows potatoes or other garden products should know that the skunk eats the potato beetle which destroys his potatoes. And if he is a hop grower, he should be proud of the fact that other hop growers in the past recognized the value of the skunk in destroying borers. The growers were the first to grant protection to this animal, through the law (New York).

Again the skunk is sometimes blamed by poultry growers for the loss of poultry.

A trapper looks over the skunk to decide the amount of his white fur, as to its grade, and in proper season he may remove the entire breeding stock of skunks from that region with his traps.

Let the skunk parade before a nature lover, a trapper, a poultry raiser, a gardener, a sportsman, and a farmer, and each one will judge the animal from a different viewpoint.

But even though a person owns the land supporting a skunk, the animal is not his. It belongs to the state, and what the state does with it may be determined not by the interest of all involved, but unfortunately, by whatever group happens to have the greatest political influence.

What is true of the skunk is also true of other birds and mammals to be found in our woods and fields, and brings to the minds of those interested wonderment as to just what IS RIGHT in these matters . . . is any one group, for selfish reasons, justified in attempting the destruction of any of the living creatures, which according to the above facts, taken from a New York Cornell Rural School leaflet, published in 1937, really BELONG to the state?

If the skunk has become too plentiful in certain sections, possibly its control may be necessary, but it is hoped that any groups interested, whether as sportsmen, or for any reasons, will remember that this animal has its place in Nature's scheme, and has value to the farmer, even though Pennsylvania farmers, as yet, not all be aware of that fact. The skunk has been credited, on good authority, with being a destroyer of Japanese beetles, as well as other real pests.

The facts presented above apply also to many varieties of birds and mammals, so often thought of only as to be rid of, yet which properly understood, will prove of value. This includes even the despised weasel, which too has its job to be done in the general and very large Nature's scheme. It is hoped that some day the farmers of this state, sportsmen, and others, will be in a position to approach these matters from a less selfish and narrow angle than may be the case now.

And how many farmers' families in the hunting season have lost, do you think, some, to them, valued read, in a pet cat, which has probably lost its life, from a sportsman's gun, while watching on its owner's own property, a field mouse's home, a genuine pest, which the cat helps to keep down in quantity. The cat does its part, and its control should come, not by the hunter's gun, but through education, which will teach owners of female cats to stop giving helpless kittens to anyone who will take them away, even though it is only in some cases, to set them adrift to hunt for their food in fields and woods. Let's have less killing and more education in these matters.

Miss deGanahl Has Role In Play at Knox School

With Miss Betty de Ganahl, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Carl de Ganahl, 430 Radcliffe street, playing the part of one of the country folks, all the traditional pomp and brilliance of Christmas Eve at Kenilworth Castle in 1795 was depicted in the annual Christmas Revel at the Knox School, Coopers-town, N. Y., last evening.

Mrs. E. Russell Houghton, principal of the school, as the Duchess of Northumberland, joined with the students in the presentation of the elaborate Elizabethan spectacle in costume, which is one of the highlights of the and Edna Best are the starring trio in David O. Selznick's new romantic drama, "Intermezzo, a Love Story," which begins a two-day engagement at the Grand Theatre today, through United Artists release.

Th strong cast supporting the stars includes John Halliday, Cecil Kellaway, Eleanor Wesselhoeft, as well as the two well-known juvenile players—Ann Todd, aged six, and Douglas Scott, aged 13. The latter named pair portray the roles of Leslie Howard's and Edna Best's children in the production.

BRISTOL THEATRE

A brilliant cast, an excellent story and superb direction, well spiced with action, comedy and tense drama, combine to make of "Exclusive," the motion picture which opened at the Bristol Theatre last night one of the season's real hit films.

Using a battle between two rival newspapers as its background, the story concerns the sacrifice a father is forced to make when he must choose between strict adherence to the newspaper code or betrayal of his own daughter. The cast is headed by Fred MacMurray, Frances Farmer and Charlie Ruggles, and includes Lloyd Nolan, Fay Holden, Ralph Morgan and a score of other noted players.

RITZ THEATRE

Melodrama in the finest sense, thrill-jammed and action-crammed, is exemplified by "Those High Grey Walls," which opened at the Ritz Theatre yesterday. Highlighted by absorbing characterizations and endowed with a fast-moving and unusual story, the new picture is of a quality which keeps the audience spellbound until the final fade-out.

Walter Connolly, central figure of the film, is perfectly cast as the beloved and kindly country doctor, who is serving a jail sentence because he let his humanity outweigh his moral scruples.

Tells Realtors To Capitalize On Assets of Bucks County

Brown said that beginning June 1st, when his department received an appropriation with which to function: "I have seen a marked change come over Pennsylvania." The speaker said that some may think this is due to war conditions, but this he discounted, stating that he knew of no Pennsylvania concern receiving contracts for war materials for a foreign nation. He gave all of the credit for the upturn in the industry in Pennsylvania to a restoration of confidence. "Confidence," he said, "you can destroy it, or you can create it. We had been destroying it by our attitude to industry in the four years previous to Governor James' administration."

"In Pennsylvania," the speaker said, "the James administration has restored confidence, and as a result of the co-operative and sympathetic attitude of Governor James' administration toward business and employees, we have seen a marked change in the attitude of Pennsylvania industries and Pennsylvania business people. We hear all over the state of plants expanding, which for a number of years refused to go ahead and expand in Pennsylvania, and we hear of new industries desiring to locate here. Industries which a couple of years ago were leaving the state, have made plans to remain, and new industrial construction in Pennsylvania and utility construction to supply the power for our expanding industries, will this year exceed $100,000,000. This tremendous figure is several times as much as was spent by industries and utilities in Pennsylvania in any one of the preceding four years."

As first-hand illustrations of the success of the Department of Commerce in keeping Pennsylvania industries in Pennsylvania, Secretary Brown referred to the Viscose Company of Philadelphia. The speaker said that the Viscose Company employed about 1600 workers, and had planned to close the Philadelphia plant entirely, as it had plants located elsewhere where conditions so far as state taxes and labor were more satisfactory. A conference was arranged with the head of the Viscose Company, with the result that the company has decided to go ahead with a $200,000 improvement program, and it is so impressed by Governor James' attitude that it will remain in Philadelphia.

The speaker referred to conferences he had held with heads of hosiery unions, CIO zinc smelter organizations in the western part of the state, A. F. of L. groups, and apple growers. He also stated that his department has been successful in working out a harmonious scheme by which Pennsylvania dress factories are able to continue merchandising their products in New York. For a time the dress factory industry in Pennsylvania in which 10,000 are employed, was seriously threatened because of a contemplated embargo on the Pennsylvania product being taken into New York. A conference was arranged by Secretary Brown with Governor Lehman of New York, with the result that satisfactory relations now exist.

In the way of industrial expansion in the state, Secretary Brown referred to a $1,700,000 addition which is to be erected by the Pittsburgh Plate Glass Company. In Reading one industry plans a $10,000 expansion, while another plans a $150,000 expansion. All of this has been brought about by the progressive and co-operative attitude of the James administration.

"We are spending $400,000 to advertise for tourist business. All of this money is being spent in out-of-state newspapers. The Pennsylvania Newspaper Publishers' Association took a broad-minded stand on this issue, and agreed that the money should be spent in out-of-state newspapers for the best results. We have received 20,000 requests for maps and literature since the end of July. We plan to spend more next year." The speaker said that the increased revenue received by the state from gasoline taxes from this tourist trade would pay for the advertising 50 times over, in addition to the money these tourists spend in hotels, retail stores and elsewhere.

The secretary said that Pennsylvania carries its entire relief load by state taxes, and in order to reduce these taxes it is necessary to reduce the relief load. "All we have to do in Pennsylvania is to make a favorable tax set-up and then watch industry come in."

The speaker referred to peaceful labor conditions as being necessary to further industrial development of the state, and stated that in the four years previous to 1939, Pennsylvania stood high in the "man days" labor lost. "Now Pennsylvania is better than New Jersey and New York and stands very favorably in comparison with the other states." The speaker gave credit for this improvement in labor relations to the Department of Labor and Industry, which he said is doing "a swell job."

yesterday, Jackie told his interviewer of the many thrills and experiences. Showing some nervousness as a result of his lone trek from India, Jackie enjoyed his first night's sleep back in Bucks county better than anything else.

It was on February 4, this year, that Jackie and his mother sailed from New York City aboard the Aquitania for Southampton, England. By the way of Marseilles, then through the Suez Canal, Egypt and Colombo they proceeded on to Loi-wing, China.

"For four months we lived in grass shacks in China," Jackie explained. "Where my Dad is teaching the Chi-

The Children Wait for Christmas Toys The Adults — Christmas Dinner

By BETTY BARCLAY

Don't worry about unusual dishes for that big dinner! Are you wondering what kind of cocktail to serve; what soup, vegetable dish, pudding or other dessert; what punch to prepare; or what game to play? Here are your answers — and "Merry Christmas" to all my readers:

Citrus Cocktail (Serves 4-6)

¾ cup lemon juice
¾ cup orange juice
¾ cup sugar
Few grains salt
1 cup ginger ale (or carbonated water)

Combine and pour over cracked ice in cocktail glasses. Garnish with mint sprigs or maraschino cherries.

Cream of Lima Soup

1½ cups cooked, dried Limas
1 tablespoon fine minced parsley
1 cup top milk or thin cream
3 tablespoons butter
1 tablespoon flour
1 teaspoon salt
¼ teaspoon pepper
½ small onion, sliced

Rub Limas through a conical sieve. Melt butter, add onion and cook 5 minutes; remove onion, add flour to remaining butter; stir until smooth, add salt and pepper, cream and pureed Limas. Bring to boiling point. A little whipped cream placed in bottom of each cup before pouring in soup is always an improvement to cream soup. Garnish with finely minced parsley.

Yuletide Punch

6 cups decaffeinated coffee
¾ cup whipping cream, whipped
¾ teaspoon cinnamon
¾ teaspoon nutmeg
Top each cup of coffee with a spoonful of whipped cream into which the spices have been folded. Sugar may be served with the coffee.

Holiday guests, and the family, too, may indulge in those longed-for second cups if you make your festive brew of decaffeinated coffee.

Steamed Holiday Pudding

1 cup grated carrots
1 cup dark brown sugar, packed
1½ cups ground suet, do not pack
1 cup canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice

3 eggs
½ cup raisins
1 cup chopped citron
¾ cup sifted flour
1 teaspoon soda
1½ teaspoon cloves
½ teaspoon cinnamon
½ teaspoon allspice
1½ teaspoons salt

Beat eggs well, add sugar and beat. Add grated carrot and suet. Sift dry ingredients together and add alternately with pineapple juice, reserving a little to flour fruit. Add fruit. Pour into a large greased mold, cover and steam four hours. May be made ahead and stored in a crock or tight container in a cool place. Heat before serving and serve sliced with your favorite sauce.

Yield: This pudding will fill a 2 quart mold — 12 to 14 servings.

Magic Plum Pudding Sauce

¾ cup sweetened condensed milk
2 cups plum juice
¾ teaspoon nutmeg

Place sweetened condensed milk and 1 cup plum juice in top of double boiler and stir over rapidly boiling water 5 minutes, until mixture thickens. Remove from heat. Add remaining plum juice and nutmeg. Chill.

Orange Fluff Rennet-Custard

1 package orange rennet powder
1 pint milk
¾ cup whipping cream
¼ cup sugar

1 large or 2 small navel oranges
Make rennet-custard according to directions on package. Then chill in refrigerator. When ready to serve, whip the cream, adding sugar and mixing well. Top with whipped cream, and across cream, place sections of orange. If orange is large, use 4 half sections; if small, use 4 whole sections for each dish of dessert.

Recipes for Parlor Fun

Quick Wit, a new quiz game played with cards, is a new parlor craze that's guaranteed to solve the social ice problem. Contact is another new game craze that's fun for a crowd or a twosome. It's a "matching" game played with gay tri-colored triangles with lots of quick action and exciting ups and downs. Monopoly, the real estate trading game, continues to be a dependable recipe for parlor fun.

stand that recently it declined to include a fairyland prince in one of its exhibits because the catalogue described the otherwise placid prince as wearing "a bright military uniform."

A handbill issued by the League listed the following under "Do Buy": Fire engines, transcontinental airplanes, racers, farm tractors, building sets, radio sets, circus sets, musical instruments, etc. Under "Don't Buy" were: Army tanks, army trucks, tin soldiers, guns, gangster toys, other military toys.

Several interesting items being manufactured by the local company for the first time will be found under the Christmas trees. One, the "lacing shoe," will solve an old problem for many parents. Through its use, the three- or four-year-old will learn to lace his own shoe, because he must unlace the wooden shoe to obtain the bright-colored beads inside.

In the reproduction of a river boat with the paddles at the stern, tiny automobiles are the cargo instead of the time-honored bales of cotton. The "House That Jack Built" has three differently shaped objects in its roof to train the young in discrimination.

SELECT LINGERIE WITH GREAT CARE FOR GIFT GIVING

By Miss Edna Stephany

Home Economics Representative
If you are planning to give lingerie to one of your friends for Christmas, select it with the greatest of care. Slips and nightgowns are usually sold by bust measure, but to meet the demands of the shorter woman, half sizes, ranging from 3½ to 4½, are now available. The regular length for slips is 48½ inches; half sizes run an inch or more shorter. Special slips for tall women may be as long as 51½ inches.

Durable materials, close in weave and of good quality are more desirable. Pure dye silks are preferable to weighted silks. Look for any one of these labels: "Pure dye silk," "Pure silk," or "Silk." However, many firmly woven rayons are also satisfactory.

Look for a double top in both front and back of the slip. This will prolong the life.

For long, hard wear, a tailored slip is best. However, if we buy a frivolous, dressy slip, we should be sure that the straps are sewed into the fabric and not on the lace trim alone.

If the slip is for a very active person, select a 4-gore style in preference to a 2-gore cut. The 4-gore style wears better because there is less "riding around" of the slip.

A well-designed slip has plain adjustable straps. Elastic features of straps are usually unsatisfactory.

Look for good construction when purchasing underwear. Small even machine stitching about 24 stitches per inch, lace sewed on securely, seams finished with double stitching or a non-rip feature that prevents ripping and fraying of seams, and a firm hem are desirable features.

Sometimes just a touch of dainty embroidery to outline a yoke, or a tailored monogram can be applied to add to the attractiveness of the garment.

COULEE DAM, Wash. — (INS) — When construction is finally completed on the world's largest dam at Grand Coulee, the diminutive but powerful electric locomotives on the site will have traveled the equivalent of 20 times the distance around the world. Leaving every 90 seconds during construction operations, the locomotives have carried a total of 15,000,000 tons of materials to various points on the dam, officials estimated.

War Suggestions Are Shunned In Toyland

can market this Christmas season are British-made, with the London balloon barrage, anti-aircraft gun, tanks and bombing planes leading.

In contrast the American toys are based almost entirely on peace-time pursuits. Instead of tanks, there are farm tractors. Tiny trucks have taken the place of motor transports.

Even the traditional toy soldier is giving way to historical characters, or figures of everyday life such as the postman, motorman and policeman.

Illustrative of the efforts of women's organizations over the nation is the work of the Women's International League for Peace and Freedom, which several times has commended the local nese to make airplanes, the country was wild when we first arrived. We were the first white settlers they had ever seen.

"We were bombed out of China by the Japs as we were stopping at one of the hotels. We fled to the mountains in an automobile and then ran as fast as we could into the heavily-wooded section. The Japs knew that my Dad was engaged in teaching the Chinese to make airplanes and that was not so good."

On the trip back to the United States this time, Jackie's lips were sealed with silence as to any details about his Dad's business or about his own trip home. On part of the trip he was watched carefully by secret service agents so that no harm would come to him, but he was strictly "on his own" otherwise.

Because of the fact that his Dad is exceptionally busy at this time, it was decided to take the chance of sending young Jackie home alone. The youngster's baggage was placed in two suitcases and sent ahead aboard the Sardinia, but this boat struck a German mine and was sunk two days before Jackie left himself.

On Wednesday, November 1, Jackie, with a small handbag containing a few souvenirs, mostly Chinese and Japanese knives, and just clothes to get by, kissed his dad and mother goodbye and left Loi-wing, China, for Burma, India, then by one of the trucks of his Dad's company to Bhamo, a distance of 57 miles. From that point he boarded a flatbottom river boat for Mandalay, a day and a half trip with plenty of excitement.

"It was while on the river that I saw a native Burmese scalped, floating down the river," Jackie told his interviewer in a very nonchalant manner.

At Mandalay, Jackie boarded an airplane for his first trip in the air to Hong Kong where he learned that his baggage had been lost as a result of the German mine incident. He enlarged his scant wardrobe in Hong Kong by purchasing a pair of long trousers and an extra shirt. The trip by air from Mandalay was made in a seaplane to Bangkok, Siam, and then on to Hongkong by airplane.

In Hongkong, Jackie boarded "The President Coolidge" for the next part of the return trip to California by the way of Shanghai and Japan. The trip by boat to California took 14 days.

In Los Angeles on Thursday night, December 7th, at seven p. m., Jackie boarded "The Main Liner," a 14-passenger plane and crossed his fingers again, trusting to modern science and luck. The big airliner arrived at the Newark Airport the following afternoon eight minutes ahead of schedule.

In Chicago, Jackie got off the airliner long enough to send a telegram ahead to his grandmother telling her to have someone meet him at the Newark Airport Friday afternoon.

"It was a rough ride, that trip from Los Angeles by air," Jackie remarked. "They strap you in going over the mountains and it was pretty bumpy at times, but I slept just the same."

Jackie said that his most exciting time on the trip from Burma was when he was "acting steward" on "The President Coolidge" and sat at company for its refusal to manufacture war-like toys.

The League sponsors exhibits and issues literature stressing the use of toys to create desirable early habits. So strict is the organization in its Jackie has only attended school about three years all told but he has always made all grades, due in a great part to his knowledge gained by traveling. He likes school and is anxious to get down to his studies.

"Oh, yes, I forgot to tell you. I had a grand stop in Honolulu, and a great time on the beaches there where I rode a surfboard and took a grand spill."

Jackie had six monkeys for his pets in Burma and he assured his interviewer that monkeys can be among the best friends a man can have. They never forget, but many are mean, he added.

"Dad bought me a wild stallion in Burma for 45 rupees, about $15 in American money, and I had a lot of fun riding that baby," Jackie said. His experience fighting rats and mice in the bamboo houses of Burma when they first arrived, were also thrillers, Jackie added.

"I don't know what I'm going to study when I am older, but I know one thing I'm not, and that is electricity," Jackie said. "That's because I once saw a man electrocuted in China accidentally and I'll never forget that. I'd rather see a scalped Burmese anytime."

The flatbottom boat on which Jackie started his long trip back home was used to haul elephants.

The only lonesome part of the trip home Jackie declared was when they started to play music aboard "The President Coolidge." He said that it sort of made him homesick for Ma and Dad as well as anxious to get back to Langhorne.

Jackie, who was born in Albany, N. Y., said that in China where his Dad's plant is now located, there is plenty of defense set up and there is not much chance of being driven out by any Japs.

"I'd rather travel by boat any time than by air," Jackie said, as he proudly displayed a lot of Chinese knives that he brought home as souvenirs.

The 11-year-old youngster had malaria twice in China where conditions at the time were very bad for children, but he has recovered and was not sick a day on the long trip back to the States.

RECIPES: Those Which Interest Women

SOMETHING DIFFERENT FOR CHRISTMAS DESSERT

After a heavy Christmas dinner, some prefer a dessert that is lighter than plum pudding or mince pie. Here is one that should please the most fastidious epicure. Incidentally, this dessert may be served any time—from January to December.

Burnt Almond and Cherry Ice Cream

1 package vanilla arrowroot pudding
2 cups milk
1/2 cup sugar
1/3 cup toasted almonds, chopped
1/2 cup maraschino cherries, chopped
3 tablespoons maraschino juice
1 cup cream, whipped

Mix vanilla arrowroot pudding with milk. Bring to boil, stirring constantly. Add sugar, nuts, cherries and maraschino juice; cool. Pour into refrigerator tray; freeze quickly about 1 hour. Fold in whipped cream. Freeze quickly 3 to 4 hours.

Makes about 1 quart.

HEALTHFUL PAINTIES

Here are two recipes from sunny Hawaii to make your Christmas holiday entertaining more festive. The first is a delicious party punch made from canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice and the second a pineapple juice fig filling that is delicious served between the layers of devil's food cake.

Holiday Punch

4 cups fresh orange juice
2 cups fresh lemon juice
4 cups canned cherry juice
16 cups canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice
2 cups grape juice
16 cups water
1/4 cup strawberry syrup
3/4 pound cane sugar
3 quarts ginger ale
Slices of oranges and lemons
Canned Hawaiian pineapple gems (spoon size pieces)
Block of ice

Mix all ingredients except ginger ale, sliced fruit and ice, and let stand overnight in a cool place (refrigerator preferred). Before serving time, place clear blocks of ice in bowl, pour in punch and add ginger ale. Garnish top of the ice with sliced fruit. Approximately 90 servings.

Pineapple Fig Filling

1 1/2 cups dried figs
1 1/2 cups canned unsweetened Hawaiian pineapple juice
2 slices lemon peel
1/2 cup sugar

Rinse figs, stem and chop in small pieces. Add pineapple juice and lemon peel. Bring to boil and let boil actively for about 10 minutes. Add sugar and cook until mixture thickens, stirring frequently to prevent scorching. Remove lemon peel, cool and spread between layers of devil's food cake. This amount makes adequate filling for two nine- or ten-inch layers or enough topping for an 8x8 inch sheet cake.

ORANGE WALDORF SALAD

(Serves 12)
1 quart diced apples, marinated in 2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup diced celery
2 cups diced Navel oranges
1/2 cup raisins (shredded dates or chopped walnuts)
1 cup Lemon Mayonaisse
Combine. Serve on lettuce.

OLD FRIENDS IN NEW DRESS

Even Our Desserts Need Occasional New Toggery in Order to Earn Flattering Comment

No matter how delicious a dessert may be, it is taken as a matter of course if served without change, time after time. But add a new filling, flavor, topping or decoration and this old friend is welcomed by the family with open arms.

Here are two rennet-custard desserts that are all dressed up for a "surprise." Easy to make, no eggs needed, healthful and attractive—what more can you ask for?

Ginger Way

1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
1 pint milk
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
1/2 cup whipping cream
Ginger snaps
Preserved ginger

Break a ginger snap into each dessert dish. Make rennet-custard according to directions in package. Pour at once while still liquid, over ginger snaps. Do not move until firm—about 10 minutes. Chill in ice box. When ready to serve, top with whipped cream and a bit of grated preserved ginger.

Baked Apple With Rennet-Custard

1 rennet tablet
1 tablespoon cold water
1 pint milk
3 tablespoons sugar
1 teaspoon vanilla
6 apples

For Syrup

1 cup sugar
1/3 cup water
3 tablespoons red cinnamon candies
1 tablespoon lemon juice

Peel and core apples and place in baking pan. Boil the sugar, water and cinnamon candies for five minutes. Add lemon juice. Pour syrup over apples and bake (at 350 degrees F.)

for about one hour or until tender, basting several times. Place the apples in individual dishes filling the center of each apples with syrup. When cool and the syrup has jellied, make rennet-custard according to directions in package. Pour rennet-custard immediately while still liquid, over the baked apples. Do not move until firm—about 10 minutes. Chill in ice box and serve.

HOLIDAY FRUIT CUPS

What is a holiday meal or even a company meal, without a fruit cup? About the same as a man in full dress, without a tie—there's something lacking.

With holidays in the offing and frequent dinner guests during the next four months, I offer recipes for a deluxe holiday fruit cup and its economical partner—delicious in spite of its inexpensiveness.

Holiday Fruit Cup

(Serves 12)
6 Navel oranges
2 bananas, sliced
1 cup white cherries, stoned
6 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup sugar

Rubettes and emrelettes or maraschino and mint cherries. Peel and segment oranges. Combine fruits and sprinkle with lemon juice and sugar. Chill. Garnish with rubettes and emrelettes or with the green and red cherries.

To develop color note of the red and green garnishes further, serve fruit in double cocktail glasses with finely chopped green or red-tinted ice in outer glass. Make ice in automatic refrigerator from water tinted with vegetable coloring.

Economy Fruit Cup

(Serves 6-8)
1 cup Navel orange segments

COMMUNICATION

To the Editor,
The Bristol Courier,
Bristol, Pa.

Dear Sir:
This is just a note to thank you, both on behalf of the Southeastern Pennsylvania Chapter of the American Red Cross and ourselves, for the help and co-operation extended by your paper during the 1939 Red Cross Roll Call.

The active period of the drive is now over and you may be interested to know that the results this year have substantially exceeded any of the efforts of the past. Both in our opinion and in the opinion of the Red Cross people, one of the main reasons for this showing has been the aid given us by the newspapers throughout this area.

With best wishes and the Season's Greetings.

LOOKING FORWARD

By Franklyn Waltman
Publicity Director, Republican National Committee

President Roosevelt, it seems to us, deserves a great deal of credit for the self-restraint and prudence, which he has observed in recent weeks in regard to foreign affairs. Indeed, his behavior has been quite comforting to those who believe that under no circumstances, short of invasion, should the United States become involved in the European war.

Mr. Roosevelt's attitude in this regard during the last two months has been so different from his actions during September and previously that the change deserves much more comment than it has received. Most commentators have held back, we suppose, for fear that he might suddenly change back to the former direction before their words could be printed. Indeed, it is a risk we are now running.

It will be recalled that ever since the President delivered the so-called "quarantine" speech at Chicago in October 1937 he gave evidence of being distinctly war-minded. In that address, Mr. Roosevelt reversed the stand he had taken in the so-called "I-hate-war" speech at Chautauqua in August 1936. At Chicago he embraced the idea that the United States had some kind of obligation to police the world—to put down the aggressor nations.

For almost two years to a day, Mr. Roosevelt pursued the course outlined in the Chicago speech. At every opportunity he blasted the machinations of aggressor nations. He undertook to persuade the American people that their firesides and religions were threatened. He undertook to depict the checkerboard moves of European power politics as part of a holy war and indicated that we could not stand passively aside and let civilization be destroyed. Indeed, he resurrected the old chestnut about the necessity of saving democracy in Europe.

In that two-year period Mr. Roosevelt made his famous Warm Springs declaration of last April that he would be back in the fall if "we don't have a war." He endorsed—accepted as his own—a newspaper editorial which interpreted that statement to mean that our interests were tightly bound up with those of the British and French. Finally the European war came on September 1st. Mr. Roosevelt became far more active in line with the "quarantine" speech than he had been previously. Obviously he undertook during the month of September to create a war spirit or atmosphere in this country. Some called it "war mongering" and in view of the things he did that term does not seem too harsh.

Hardly a day in September passed without Mr. Roosevelt taking action or uttering words which increased the nervousness of the American people. One day he warned that foreign submarines had been sighted off the coast of New England. The next day the submarines were off the coast of Florida. Another day he proclaimed the existence of a "national emergency"—he called it a "limited national emergency" but the word "limited" did not appear in the proclamation.

Orders were issued increasing the personnel of army and navy. Long conferences with army and navy chiefs were held at the White House. The newly-created War Resources Board met in continuous session. The White House announced another submarine had been sighted. This was followed by the freakish story that mysterious message indicated the American ship Troquois might be attacked by submarines. Every day something new was announced—something disturbing.

Meanwhile all the New Deal satellites kept up a chant that America would be in the war within a year—within six months—within ninety days. The bellicose Assistant Secretary of War Louis Johnson, for instance, rattled sabers and heaped fuel on the war-mongering fire, driving to exasperation his more peace-minded and realistic chief, Secretary of War Harry H. Woodring.

And, then, suddenly during the first week of October all of this ceased. Three times in one press conference Mr. Roosevelt emphatically asserted that this country would not become involved in the war. He ordered the War Resources Board dismantled, asserting its purpose had been served. He rapped down the belligerent Louis Johnson and ordered destroyed a series of fantastic mobilization plans that gentleman had designed.

If there have been any submarines off the American coast in the last two months the White House apparently has believed silence was the better part of valor. Nor do we hear any more—that is up to this writing—of what we shall do when we get into the war. Instead of seeking to keep the country tense over the war, the President appears to be doing what he can to promote calmness and tranquility. What was the reason for this remarkable change? Only Mr. Roosevelt definitely knows the answer. But one answer may be that he suddenly awoke to the fact that the American people overwhelmingly are determined to stay out of the European war and that his actions were reacting against him. If this is true, then those Senators who led the fight against repeal of the arms embargo may take the credit, for they aroused public opinion and made it articulate. Historians may record a decade or two hence that they lost their battle—but they kept us out of war.

"RED EARTH" by TOM GILL

SYNOPSIS

Jack Douglas returns to his Miracle Mesa ranch, after an absence of six years, to find it on the verge of ruin and the countryside terrorized by a band of killers called "The Raiders" who are driving the ranchers off their property. His Aunt Ines and fiancée, Lola, rejoice at his homecoming, feeling that they now have a master to look after them. Dona Ines said if it were not for Ed Paxton, the ranch foreman, she would not have known where to turn. His first day home, Jack goes riding with his vaquero and friend, Frank Baker. The latter says the miners in Cobre jump the water rights of the ranchers and that the cattlemen are doing nothing about it. "What we need is a he-man boss. We need you!" he tells Jack. Pointing to an adobe dwelling in the canyon, Frank adds, "There may be something that's adding to our troubles. It's the meeting place of the Brotherhood. Nearly every person in the country belongs. He swears allegiance to the Brotherhood instead of the man who employs him." A rattled peon shuffles down the path. "One of our own herders," Baker remarks and pointing to a small tent nearby adds, "He stays there." Leaving Baker, Douglas goes to visit his old friend, Forest Ranger Sam Record who warns Jack that he is one of three ranchers marked for death by the Raiders. As to the other two, Bradshaw left the country and Wilson is dead. Douglas refuses to run, however, so the ranger advises him to "trust no one." The head of the Raiders, Record says, is a giant Chinese known as "The Yellow Killer."

CHAPTER VIII

Douglas was late in arriving at the hacienda. Kicking off his spurs outside the door, he ran up the stairs, but at the broad balcony surrounding the patio he stopped short and his eyes widened in amazed surprise. There, on the top landing, stood Lola and Alison, in evening dress.

A breath-taking contrast those two made. Lola's dark skin glowed with a living sheen of its own, while the other was a miracle of gleaming white in the silken gown she wore. More blonde than ever Alison Neale seemed, the sun burnishing every strand of hair, emmeshing its rays in a thousand sparks of fire.

Caught up by the thrill of pleasure that radiant picture brought him, Douglas stood looking up at them in open admiration. "But you are like two marvelous images," he said at last, "one of velvet, the other of white gold."

In delight Lola clapped her hands. "See, Alison, Spain has taught him to make phrases like a caballero, and when he left he was too proud even to look at girls."

Alison's eyes were faintly smiling. "Then he has completely changed. The very first time I saw him he threw both arms around me." She held out her hand. "Capturing any more raiders, Mr. Douglas?"

Douglas laughed. "No," he answered easily. "Only once in a lifetime do raiders turn out to be lovely señoritas."

But Lola was pulling at his arm. "You have no time to talk, lazy one," she warned. "The padre and his nephew are already here. I give you ten minutes."

Ten minutes were enough for Douglas to change from his alkali-covered riding clothes and hurry down into the patio.

Father Bodine was first to greet him—the well-beloved priest from the border mission.

"You have become a man," the priest was saying. "The boy I bade farewell to is no longer here. It is hard to realize the world does not stand still—not even here in the valley. But it is good to have you back, Jack, to take your place here. We will have many talks—good talks."

From across the room a pleasant voice interrupted. "And when my dear uncle bodes you too much with his missions, come and talk to me." Douglas turned. Before him stood the padre's nephew, Paul Bodine, a man much shorter than Douglas, with well-modulated mouth that moved readily in a smile, and a tiny pointed beard. A meticulous person—Douglas remembered that years before men spoke of him as an artist of more than usual promise, spending most of his time in France, steadily adding to his reputation until now, returning to his native land, he had built a great castle just on the edge of the foothills.

With new interest Douglas looked into the other's smiling face, conscious of the magnetism the man possessed and of the wide-set, intelligent eyes.

"I will show you my paintings and my prize horse, Coronado," Lola laughed. "Which is best, Paul?"

"It is a depressing fact that most people prefer the horse," Lola turned to Douglas. "You who love horses, Juan, you must see Coronado. He is lovely!"

But the old priest was frowning. "He is a man-killer, that horse. He threw and trampled his last owner." "And thereby showed rare judgment," Paul Bodine bowed over the head of Dona Ines.

Together the little group went in to dinner, and in the candlelight Douglas found himself seated between his aunt and Alison Neale. Opposite, beyond the banked flowers, Lola sat listening with half-closed eyes to something Paul Bodine was telling her—something that must have been amusing, for she smiled, and once the blood rose to her cheeks.

From the end of the table the padre spoke. "And what of Spain, my son?"

Douglas told him of the great cattle ranches of northern Spain while Paul Bodine listened closely to the tale of how Spanish horse breeders were producing pure-bred stock finer than any in the world.

"The revolution put an end to that," Douglas ended. "It meant the death of the old order. I sometimes think the old order is doomed everywhere—everywhere."

Proudly the eyes of his aunt rose to the ancestral portraits. "When that time comes, when all that these, my fathers, stood for is swept away, I shall be glad to go. But while I live, I fight for those times."

The priest nodded. "And yet Jack is right. There is change in the very air. Even here in this valley that I sometimes think is nearest to paradise on earth—even here too life is changing. There are forces of evil."

"The raiders?" his nephew asked. The old priest played with a few crumbs before him. "Yes, that damnable band men call the raiders."

The word, recurring like a malevolent theme wherever men met, caused Douglas to lean forward. "Tell me about them, Padre. In the few hours I am back I have heard of them more than once. What is their purpose?"

The old priest spread his hands in a gesture of despair. "That is the most baffling part of their mystery. No one knows what their purpose is—no one knows where the next blow will fall. Open terrorism is their tool—threat of all kinds, intimidation and violence. We wait—and fear, and back of it all, unknown and unpunished, is this band of raiders. Suddenly some one of us—any one of us—receives the death warning, and if he does not leave the valley, some night the Yellow Killer seeks him out."

"What is the death warning?" "A piece of jade," Paul Bodine answered. "On it is carved an owl—the Chinese symbol of death. Whoever is marked down for destruction is given a jade stone as a last warning. He may find it flung on his doorstep or tied to the neck of his saddle horse. If he remains, it means death."

Silence for a time while the servants moved about the table, and at last Douglas asked, "Has never a posse been raised against them?"

"It is like raising a posse against

REHOBOTH BEACH, Cal.—(INS)—Bagging wild geese from an automobile in one section of Rehoboth is proving more profitable than working from a blind. Several hunters found that the birds were feeding on a farm jutting out into the bay. They parked along the road, remained seated in their cars and brought down the wild fowl. Hunters hidden in blinds along the shore finished the day empty-handed.

WEALTHY DARTMOUTH

HANOVER, N. H.—(INS)—The World War class of 1914 of Dartmouth

College has successfully hurdled financial obstacles in the last 25 years. A poll of class members reveals that the average income is $9,300 a year. The largest group, 27 per cent, ranges between $5,000 and $10,000 a year. Fourteen per cent earns between $10,000 and $20,000, nine per cent earn better than $20,000, and nine per cent earn $2,500 or less.

Democrat and in which there is the least chance of Republican success—for example, Pennsylvania, Massachusetts, Ohio, Indiana, Connecticut, New York, Wyoming, Montana, Nebraska, West Virginia, Washington, Maryland and Missouri—if they should win in all thirteen of these States, which they will not—they still would be far short of a majority.

EVEN then the Democrats would have fifty-six Senators against the Republicans' thirty-six, or a clear majority of twenty. Plainly, then, it isn't possible for the Republicans to acquire control of both branches of Congress before 1942. It will take at least two more Republican years before that huge Democratic Senate majority can be wiped out. On the surface, this would seem to mean that if the next President is a Republican and has a Republican House, the Democratic Senate will be able to nullify his program and bring about a condition of legislative futility such as existed after the 1930 election, when Mr. Hoover lost complete control of Congress and was unable to get anything he wanted through.

BUT that is not necessarily true at all. On the contrary, should the country elect a Republican President and a Republican House, a coalition conservative majority in the Senate would be practically certain to support the President's program. The best proof of this is the record of the Senate in the last regular session when conservative Democrats and Republicans joined time after time to defeat Administration measures. The truth is that there is little difference these days between the conservative Democrats and Republicans.

THEY have the same point of view about pump priming, Government regulation of business and one-sided labor laws. They are equally in favor of retrenchment and budget balancing. They are alike in their opposition to the New Deal philosophy and in favor of decreasing the size of the Federal bureaucracy, which in the last seven years has been expanded to undreamed of proportions. In brief, the conservative Democrats still stand on that simple and admirable platform of 1932 from which Mr. Roosevelt has so radically departed, while the Republicans have come to accept that platform as their own.

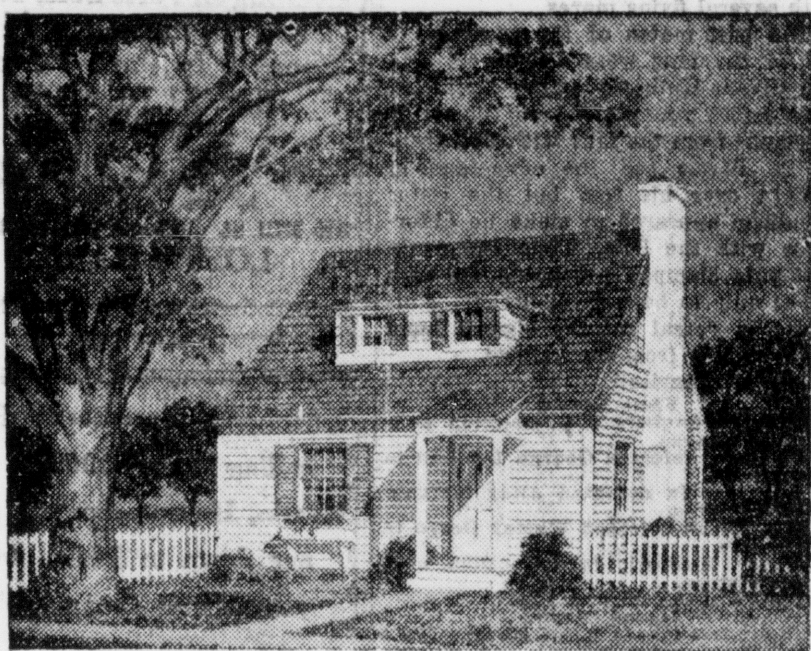

MR. Dewey expressed this thought very well the other night when he said that in the next Administration the Republicans would redeem the promises the Democrats had made seven years ago and forgotten. Headed in that direction, there is no reason a Republican President could not get behind him a working Senate majority on a sound program, acceptable to the House and country—every reason to think he could. It will not be a question in the next Senate of voting Democratic or voting Republican; it is much more apt to be a question of voting with the conservatives or voting with the radicals. And a majority of the Senate will reflect the feeling of the country as shown, one way or the other, in the 1940 election.

SELECTIONS OF TOP GRID STARS WERE CAREFULLY MADE

Committee Went Into Each Individual's Record Very Carefully

HOW THEY RATED

Outlines The Basis On Which The Team Was Picked

The record compiled by the eleven individuals rated as the year's "top" stars in the Lower Bucks School Conference for the season just closed, were chosen carefully. Comprising the committee were James P. Doherty, basketball coach at Fallsington, chairman; Mike Derfisi, Fallsington coach; Mike Derrick, Yardley coach; and Lou Tomlinson, local scholastic sports reporter.

The committee made its selections on the basis of the following:

"PICA—'Little, but oh, my!'" is the old proverb used to describe Joe's play. He didn't allow his midget size to handicap himself. Instead, he exhibited a stellar brand of ball all season. Not used often as a pass receiver, nevertheless Joe was a good offensive player who blocked well for his size. On defense he often tossed opposing ball carriers for losses or was sweeping away the interference on an end run to pave the way for the secondary to make the tackle. His play rated him the best end in the league.

LEHR—One of the "three reasons" why the Owls had a winning combination this year instead of a loser as was expected. He played good ball from whistle to whistle. Quick to follow punts down the field, he invariably caught the opposing safety man in his tracks or after only a very short gain. Many times he downed the ball before his opponent could get a chance to run with it. A stellar defense man, Lehr was also a fine blocker who cleared the path on many occasions for Owl ball carriers. His playing was instrumental in beating Bristol. In fact, he scored Bensalem's touchdown in that game and later scored one in the first Newtown tilt. His play spoke for itself when after injuries forced him to the sidelines, the Owls' front line of defense fell apart, noticeably especially in the Morrisville game.

SAK—One of the stalwarts on Bristol's line. Only Bridgeport was able to gain more than a hundred yards through the Cards' forward line. Sak was one of the main reasons for Bristol's tight defensive play, his work upholding the fine standard of guard play for which Bristol guards are noted, which such stars as Al, Tom, and Vince Profy, the Ciciella brothers, Leon and Joe, and Erny Orazi, among others, exhibited in the past few years. Sak was always down under punts like an eagle swooping for its prey and could be seen many times in the opposing team's backfield tossing rival backs for losses.

TOMLINSON—The first Bristol center to win his berth on the all-star team since the days when Jimmy Rue cavorted at that position back in 1933. He backed up the line almost to perfection, intercepted many enemy aerials, and blocked no less than six punts all season, two coming in the Burlington game, the last of which resulted in Bristol's safety, the complexion of the game at the instance of all blocked punts. All this adds up to the characteristics desired in a good defense man. He seldom, if at all, made a bad pass all season.

MUDIE—The second reason for the Owls' success this year. Captain Charlie, a "pepper box" on the line, that instilled much of Bensalem's fight, especially in the Bristol game in which he played a prominent part in helping his team to victory. He was a stalwart on defense, throwing opposing ball carriers many times for big losses. He often dropped back with potential pass receivers and intercepted several to stop offensive drives. He was beside that, a good blocker, and could lead running plays.

WOOD—Fast afoot, Wood was a hard charger and tackler who seldom missed his man. The Bulldogs had an unusually weak line this year but Wood upheld his end of the defense burden. But few gains were made through his section of the line. At any rate, he wasn't standing around blowing his hands when such gains may have been made.

MELSKY—One of the best pass receivers of all the ends in the conference this year, he snared many that enabled touchdown drives to move rapidly toward the enemy goal line. He was down under punts fast and starred on the defense throughout the entire campaign for the Newtown Indians.

SCARBOROUGH—The No. 3 reason for the Owls' successful season. Bob's brilliant running, punting and passing was definitely the main cog in Bensalem's offensive attack. He is a good open field runner and has a special knack of returning punts for substantial gains. He runs like a deer, and once in the open he is a hard man to catch. Unfortunately for the Owls, he was unable to break away on a long run this year. On the other hand, he never allowed a pass receiver to get behind him, and seldom, if ever, missed an opposing ball carrier running in the open for a touchdown. A good punter, Scarborough starred particularly in the Bristol game.

DRIVER—Highly rated not only by his coach and Newtown fans, but by all who have watched him play at all. Speedy afoot, Driver, like Scarborough, can take a punt and really "go with it," often returning them for enough yardage that enabled the Indians to open a touchdown drive. Not only that, the flashy colored boy was one-half of Newtown's famous pass combination of Driver to Pidcock and vice versa. For when Al wasn't throwing them, he was receiving them. He made a spectacular catch in the end zone of the touchdown pass against Bryn Athyn and did likewise in a couple of other tilts during the campaign. Moreover, he is a good punter and a fast open field runner.

PETERPAUL—The boy that "man" Bristol a winning team. In fact, many Bristol fans rate him even above the inimitable and idol of Cardinal followers, Dan DiMidio. Converted out of necessity from a tackle to a back, early in the season, Clem learned fast, and with his fleet running ability, was able to pick up plenty of yardage for Bristol during the campaign. He "lit the spark that set the Cards afire" and enabled them to turn what appeared to be a dismal campaign into a winning season. And he wasn't a ball totter alone either, for he played brilliantly on the defense, coming up from his halfback position many times to throw opposing ball carriers to the earth after reaching the line of scrimmage, sometimes throwing them for losses. He could also grab passes and "go with them," as well as intercept them.

DI MIDIO—His record speaks for itself. Honored for the third time on the All-Conference eleven in three years, he must have something "on the ball." And Danny had plenty! For not only was he a brilliant lugger of the mail, but he could pass well, and was a sensational punter. Many will recall his sparking 72-yard punt that stopped on the one-yard line against Burlington to set the stage for the safety which followed, a blocked kick in the end zone. Besides scoring three touchdowns against Langhorne, he raced 85 yards with an intercepted pass to score against the Bensalem Owls, then ran another back 55 yards for the Cards' only touchdown against Burlington. His defensive play was also of fine calibre and because of his general all-around ability for the past three years, Danny was richly awarded the captaincy of the 1939 team, his last season on the high school grid combination.

PROFY FIVE OUT TO TIGHTEN RACE IN BASKETBALL LEAGUE

Every Effort To Be Made Tonight To Defeat Grundy Five

PLAYING GOOD BALL

Joe Roe To Use His Strongest Lineup In The Battle Tonight

Undismayed at its defeat at the hands of the Falls Alummi team, the Profy five of the Bristol Basketball League will attempt to tighten the race tonight by beating the Grundy team when the teams clash in the second game scheduled for tonight. In the opening game, Rohm & Haas will meet the Celtics.

The Profytes have been playing top-notch ball and lost out to the Celtics by one point. In their other defeat this season, it was by a two-point margin. The radiomen have won three games and if successful in beating Grundy's tonight will be in a deadlock for second place, Manhattan taking first place.

Joe Roe, who coaches the Mill street outfit will use his strongest lineup against the woolen twisters. He will start Slaven and Dorsey as forwards, Hughes at center, with the guards being Tom Profy and Chuck Klein. Pete Bornice will be held in reserve.

Manager George Herman, of the woolen spinners, who suffered their first defeat Monday night, will most likely start Billy Gallagher and Johnny Zack as forwards, Buckman at center, and Narcisi and Burke as guards. Vanzant is still on the injured list.

Rohm & Haas does not expect much trouble with the Celtics, although Manager Vito Della is determined to beat the chemical workers. Della signed Dick Lukens this week after the latter was released by Profy. Lukens, playing a regular position, will be a big aid to the cellar-dwellers. Welsh will be at center for the Celtics. Ralph Cahill, who was absent in the last Rohm & Haas game, will be at his post tonight, and the remainder of the lineup will be: Roe, Cole, Smith, and Everitt.

Opening tapoff will take place at eight o'clock sharp. The games will be played on the Italian Mutual Aid court.

Evans Takes The Arena Mat Tourney

TRENTON, N. J., Dec. 14—Don Evans, handsome Hungarian youngster, was the winner of the wrestling tournament held last night at the Arena.

In winning, Evans had to dispose of Whitey Gevro, Henry Kulkovic and Tom Marvin in the order named. Marvin, Evans' opponent in the final, had to eliminate Andy Heixner, Ed Cook and Rudy Strongberg, respectively.

As the tournament turned out, Marvin had to face four opponents, while Evans had to meet but three. This latter incident brought much protest from Marvin. The latter besought Referee John Seaman to give him a rest period after he had pinned Rudy Strongberg in the semi-final round, but the pleas went for naught as Evans came bursting into the ring ready for action. The match was over in the space of a minute as Evans brought his burly foe to the canvas with several flying mares.

The best match of the evening, as far as the fans were concerned, was the Evans-Kulkovic affair. Kulkovic, the Polish youngster, drew rounds of applause from the fans with fine grappling. Evans had the advantage in weight over his foe, but the latter handicapped appeared to make no difference with the Pole. Time and again the pair clamped pet holds on each other in defeat got the biggest hand of the night from the gallery.

The summaries:

First Round

Rudy Strongberg won decision over Allan Eustance.

Ed Cook defeated George Lenihan in 14 minutes.

Tom Marvin defeated Andy Meixner in 12 minutes.

Don Evans defeated Whitey Gevro in 5 minutes.

Henry Kulkovic won decision over Abe Coleman.

Bob Wagner drew a bye.

Second Round

Rudy Strongberg defeated Bob Wagner, Wagner disqualified.

Tom Marvin defeated Ed Cook in 6 minutes.

Don Evans defeated Henry Kulkovic in 11 minutes.

Semi-Final Round

Tom Marvin defeated Rudy Strongberg in 7 minutes.

Don Evans drew a bye.

Final Round

Don Evans defeated Tom Marvin in 1 minute.

Jean Silpath, Camden, N. J., spent Friday until Sunday with her grand mother, Mrs. Irene Silpath, 335 Radcliffe street.

DALLAS, Tex.—(INS)—The home of S. B. Helyer of Dallas is crowded—not only with visitors but also with a collection of the bones of a prehistoric animal. Helyer has taken in the remains of a huge beast discovered in Pecos county near the New Mexico border. The ribs are the size of barn rafters, the four-foot tusks as big around as fence posts and the leg bones as large as a tree trunk. The jaws are three feet across at the base and about four feet long.
